CELEBRAR EFFEGE NEEDED

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Elaborate civilian air defense plans calling for the construction of a gas and bomb proof cellar in every Berlin building were announced today. Supernatural buildings will be used and subterranean "safety lairs" will be built in the main traffic centres in the "safety first" programme disclosed by Emily Von Looper, Air Defence League leader for greater Berlin.

Construction of a cellar for the average Berlin apartment, Von Looper said, would cost 500 marks (about $300) and would alleviate unemployment. The government, he explained, is unable to assist the programme and buildings must be raised by assessments and contributions. The plan is to have clear rubbish and roofs will be impregnated as necessary precautions, he said. "Berlin is the heart of Europe," said Von Looper. France and Poland are still at the head of Germany in air defence.

A correspondent of the London Daily Mail last night quoted Her Majesty's minister, Lord Halifax, as saying at Belgrade: "We will do our best to see that no air force is put to the test of its mettle by the British defence frontiers on the Rhine."

ALEXANDER'S BODY PLACED NEAR HIS KIN

Jugoslavia King Now Lies in Tomb He Recently Completed

BELGRADE, Oct. 18.—The body of the murdered King Alexander was placed today near those of his ancestors in the royal memorial chapel in his native city of Toplice. While 50 men bore the sarcophagus up a hill through tree-lined lanes to the chapel all activities throughout Yugoslavia remained at a standstill for two minutes as the common people paid tribute to their fallen king.

Then, as Alexander was laid in the tomb which he had only recently completed, church bells were tolled throughout the country. They mingled strangely with heavy guns of the army and navy which fired out a mighty drive. Spectators were not allowed to curdle, cheer or sob, despite a drizzling rain. An atmosphere of terror prevailed, lest anarchists attempt to take the lives of the three kings in funeral cortege.

BOND-HOLDERS OR HOME-OWNERS?

A 64 mill tax rate, in any city, is unjust, exorbitant, confiscatory, and dangerous. There is no room for argument on that point.

In fifteen years that rate the property owner would pay to the city as taxes the last dollar of the assessed value of his property. Calculated at current rates, the rate of taxation would pay in little less than half that time pay taxes to the full assessed value of his home, and the businessman to the full value of his store or factory.

For twenty years Edmonton councils have wrestled with the problem of what to do with a vast amount of property confiscated for non-payment of taxes. The rate of taxation has been during the last four years increased by many additional property-owners into arrears, with caveats against their homes and places of business.

A 64 mill rate makes it cheaper to rent than to own property. Rates by an indefinite continuance of such a rate, excess of 3 per cent, large numbers would undoubtedly, and for obvious reasons, stop paying taxes, let the city take their property, and the rate of taxation would be a city of home-owners would simply fade out.

The tax rate will have to come down, come down next year, and come down drastically, if that menace is to be dispelled. Quite naturally the property-owner will expect to hear from the city each week of the rate of taxation, and elections what they propose to do to bring about such a reduction. The candidate who has nothing to offer in that respect cannot in the circumstances hope to secure property-owner support.

Aside from the fatuous notion that the civic budget can be balanced at a reasonable level by chiseling wages and relief allowances, there are a number of ways in which the rate of taxation can be brought down to 50 mills at least, and this without throwing more people out of jobs, intensifying distress conditions, hampering business, or abandoning the program of systematic street improvement at a moderate rate to which the city committed itself some years ago.

The sinking fund, the rate of taxation, and the large enough that payments into that fund could be suspended for a couple of years without involving trouble.

The city is plainly entitled to a generous share of certain taxes which the Provincial Government has appropriated to itself arbitrarily and improperly, and without even the formality of a respectable excuse.

The city is entitled to a substantial reduction in the interest rate charged by the bank on current loans; interest rates are down, and money not worth more than half what it was two years ago.

Refinancing of the city's bonded debt is due and long overdue. That can be brought about either by voluntary consent of the bondholders or by the imposition of a provincial tax on bond-interest payments in excess of 3 per cent; the excess payments to be related to the city. Faced by a general election within the next year, the legislature dare not refuse to impose such a tax if the municipalities made an undue demand for it.

Tax arrears can undoubtedly be collected in large amounts if the collecting is done in a businesslike manner; arrears consolidated, penalties and caveats treated as hypothetical liens in the accounts, and the rate of taxation an attractive plan whereby he may free his property of the encumbrance over a period of years.

There may be other ways by which the crushing overhead of debt charges can be cut or lessened. That is the direction in which any relief will have to be sought; and it is rather obvious that the solvency of the city cannot be secured unless this line of effort is followed.

How to cut the tax rate is the biggest problem that confronts the city today, and will, inevitably, be the issue in the municipal elections. On this issue, the property-owner will, and should, expect to be told very plainly what those who seek his vote have to suggest.

Cutting the tax rate, and cutting the excessive debt charges which eat up an enormous proportion of the city's revenue and are now eating up the taxpayers' equity in property.

The time for soft talk has gone. The council of the last four years have handled this result-deflation question with gloves. The result has been a 64 mill tax rate. That will longer do.

A Pollyanna attitude on the part of next year's council will not save the home of the property-owner from confiscation.

Edmonton is paying from two to three times what it should be paying in interest on its bonded and floating debt. That is the crux of the matter. It is not the council going to represent and serve the bond-holders or the taxpayers.

Prostatic Disorders

Common

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

One of the common disorders of men which may appear after the age of forty is trouble with the prostate gland. Prostatic disorders unquestionably cause much physical distress as well as mental irritability and may rob the patient of all enjoyment of the "harvest years" of middle life, to which he has looked forward.

Inflammation of the prostate may produce marked symptoms almost from the first. In some advanced cases, no symptoms may occur, leaving the prostate unsuspected as a cause of trouble. Chronic inflammation of the prostate may follow an acute inflammatory process, and may be accompanied by any previous cause, or may result from various infections, including those of the bladder or kidneys. One of the symptoms is a red, painful, and sometimes different parts of the body, which often localizes in the lower back, leading the patient to believe he is suffering from all his troubles.

The prostate is the cause of this back pain, the ache is generally most noticeable early in the day and disappears along about noon. Another common symptom is a tired feeling accompanied by restlessness. Other symptoms may develop such as discharge, or a sensation as though the prostate gland were full of liquid, or the prostate being obstructed. Sometimes there is a frequent desire to empty the bladder, which proves disturbing.

Prostatic disorders also produce profound mental changes and the patient becomes irritable and depressed. He often feels that he is becoming an old man and longs for the virility of younger days.

The prostate gland normally weighs only about one-half ounce and is made up partly of glandular tissue and partly of muscular tissue. The entire gland or only a portion may be affected. In some cases, considerable enlargement of the prostate may occur.

There are several contributing causes which may bring about chronic prostatitis, such as wrong diet, constipation, lack of exercise, and other causes. Prince Is Called As A Witness

PRINCE GOTTFRIED ZU HOHENLOHE

Evidence and witnesses from England and Europe are being called into the now famous Vanderbilt court case over what was perhaps an unconscious tribute to the rebellion of Ann Veronica against a man-made world—though Jane did not read Ann Veronica now—which kept Jane's office like a man's. Also it made her clients a little more easy in their attitude about doing business with young women.

After the Thorpe episode was completely over and Amy had taken the child, Jane had started out for her usual quiet life. She had a small circle of friends and acquaintances, since the real estate business counts so much on such contacts. Yet Jane Gottfried was not a woman who would be called confidentially for her clients. She was a woman who would be called confidentially for her clients. She was a woman who would be called confidentially for her clients.

He was there, actually, brown and hard and strong. His arms were like bands of steel around her. "I worked as an able seaman on that damned boat," he said. "I would have been out of it I hadn't been so anxious to get back to you. I never let you out of my sight again."

She blushed a little. "I've adopted a baby. A little girl."

Police said to give his mother so she would not know he had lied about getting a 30-day work job. Indicted with young Soldat were Frank Shewinski, 17, and John Maciejewski, 18.

Mrs. Soldat was bound and gagged while alone in her home Friday. She died of suffocation. The robbers took $200. Police said Soldat confessed he took $12 and gave each of his companions $10.

JR., SENIOR GRADUATES' FINALS SATURDAY

Varsity Will Play Here While Junior Squad Goes South

Local Teams are Given Odds to Win Against Highly Touted Clubs From the Football City

CALGARY, Oct. 18.—Alberta's senior rugby championship will be decided Saturday in the game between University of Alberta and Calgary Athletics at Edmonton. On the junior front the first game of a two-game total-point series for the Alberta crown will be played here between Edmonton, Kimmie and Calgary Greyhounds.

If the college squad wins the Edmonton game they get the title which has been held by Calgary teams for the last few years. A playoff will be needed if Alberta wins.

WIN THREE GAMES

The Varsity team has won all three of its games so far this year, while Alberta won their opener against Lethbridge, lost one to the students and yesterday were notified that Lethbridge had defaulted a game that was scheduled for Saturday.

Possibly the strongest football machine built up in Edmonton since the time of the famed Bears, University of Alberta Grouches in the senior league and Kimmie in the junior league are expected to show their superiority as great opposition in their title games on Saturday.

DEFEAT ALTAHANS

Alta Wilson's student squad, with three straight triumphs, has won credit well to be home to the senior Alta, while Kimmie journey south for their game and both squads are expected to be in great shape for their respective clashes.

DEFEAT ALTAHANS

Varsity in this season's campaign have twice defeated Lethbridge and gained their third triumph when they turned aside the highly touted Alta machine in the football city. It is possibly the strongest aggregation that has carried the green and gold colors for Varsity in their many campaigns on the gridiron, and they are not favorites to cap the provincial title on Saturday.

Calgary Miller's Kimmie juniors have made an impressive showing in their campaign against local teams and have won all their games by decisive margins. Their opposition in the south is much stronger, however, and they will be given reputation a plenty in their title bout.

All players are reported in great

Major League Ball Boss Advocates Ban On Tours

Injuries Coupled With Unpleasantness is Reason For Ban

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—An absolute ban on all barnstorming tours by major league baseball players was advocated yesterday by President Will Harridge of the American League. President Harridge said the tour undoubtedly would be taken on the subject at the annual winter meeting.

During a series of recent mishaps—Jimmie Fox's injury that may run his career; the unpleasantness at Milwaukee when irate fans stoned the box office demanding their money back because the Dean brothers failed to pitch as many innings as advertised; and the soreness of Paul Dean's arm that may affect his pitching next year—President Harridge said the only thing to do was to prohibit barnstorming altogether.

The earliest history of pipe organs cannot be traced exactly, although it is assumed that they were developed from bagpipes and Pan pipes.

Dispatches say there will be a recommendation made in the near future by the American League, which probably recommended that the injury suffered by Jimmy Fox at Winnipeg, and the worn arm which Paul Dean acquired.

While, while in Calgary, wins a playoff will be necessary.
